

Group 4

By imperial decree, Princess Turandot is to marry the first royal suitor able to answer her three riddles.

Being so desirable that men came by the hundreds, from all over the world, queued up to vie for her love, there was most certainly a catch.

To have any shot with Turandot, a suitor first had to answer three vexing riddles.

Anyone who failed would end up with his head on a stake, serving as a warning to all else still standing in line.

Calaf resolves to try his chance with the cold-hearted Princess, although others attempt to dissuade him.

Turandot, posing her three riddles, becomes shocked by Calaf's correct answers!

Offering her a chance of escape, Calaf states the demand of his name by morning.

As every effort is made to find out Calaf's name, he finally tells her...

But now Turandot has learned that his true name is Love.
